JANUARY 2019

WHEREAS, birth defects are structural changes present at birth that can affect almost any part or parts of the body and are common, costly and critical; and

WHEREAS, birth defects can occur in any infant regardless of either parent’s age, race, education, ethnicity, health history or economic status; and

WHEREAS, birth defects are a leading cause of infant death, accounting for one in every five infant deaths in the United States; and

WHEREAS, steps can be taken to reduce the chance a child will be born with a birth defect, such as taking a daily vitamin with folic acid before and during pregnancy, getting regular prenatal care, becoming up-to-date with vaccinations, reaching a healthy weight before pregnancy and stopping the use of alcohol or drugs during pregnancy; and

WHEREAS, early identification of a child with a birth defect coupled with early intervention services typically improves the child’s quality of life.

NOW, THEREFORE, as Governor of the State of North Dakota, I do hereby proclaim January 2019, BIRTH DEFECTS PREVENTION MONTH in the State of North Dakota.
